Profile

I am a 26-year-old woman set to complete a two-year program in Frontend Development at Noroff in the spring of 2025. I'm aware that I am still quite new to the field, but I hope that my education and enthusiasm might be of interest.

During my studies, I have developed a foundational understanding of modern web technologies such as HTML and CSS, and I am currently in the process of learning JavaScript. I have also been introduced to TypeScript and plan to further deepen my knowledge, either independently or later in my studies. I also intend to learn more about React before completing my program next summer. Additionally, I have gained some knowledge of Node.js and Express.js. While I still have a way to go before feeling fully comfortable with all these technologies, I am highly motivated to build a solid skill set in Frontend Development.

I have started building a portfolio website. It's not fully completed yet, but I hope it can showcase some of my projects and the skills I have acquired during my studies.

With a bachelor's degree in Social Work and part-time positions as both a farm- and social worker, I have developed skills in both independent work and team collaboration. I value a positive and supportive work environment and believe that it contributes to strong work ethics and productivity. Additionally, I place a high emphasis on punctuality and structure in my work.

I am eager to continue developing as a Frontend Developer and hope to contribute and grow into an even better developer.

I am available for an interview on short notice and can be reached via both email and phone.
